

Literature Survey

Research Summary

Recent studies show that machine learning can improve flood forecasting by spotting patterns from historical data.

- Early warning systems reduce losses and improve disaster preparedness.

Brief Explanation

The project follows this approach by using a trained classifier to label conditions as Normal, Warning, Danger, or Critical.

- The model is then used in a web dashboard for practical decision support.